

Executive Biography

Julian Moore
Interim Managing Director,
Director of Government Affairs
& Strategy
Boeing UK, Ireland, and the Nordics

Julian Moore is the interim Managing Director and the current Director of Government Affairs & Strategy for Boeing in the UK, Ireland, and the Nordics. Julian joined Boeing in May 2017, following eight years in the UK Government.

Julian spent the majority of this time in policy roles within the Ministry of Defence, with a focus on operations, defence procurement, defence relations and the air domain.

Julian finished his time in the Civil Service in the National Security Secretariat, part of the Cabinet Office, focused on foreign and defence policy.

In his current role, Julian is the interim managing director for Boeing in the UK, Ireland, and the Nordics. Also as the Director of Government Affairs and Strategy for the same region, Julian also leads on UK, Irish and Nordic public policy issues and strategy; managing the company's relationship with politicians and government officials in these countries, and helping to integrate and advance Boeing's businesses in the region.

Outside of Boeing, Julian is an officer in the British Army Reserve, currently posted to the UK Defence Academy. He is an Aerospace Engineer by training.
